

Spiva Butte Nature Preserve

View PDF

Quick Facts

Property Name

Spiva Butte Nature Preserve

Acres

1,000

Ownership

currently private

Public Access

No

Conservation Values

shrub-steppe habitat, sage grouse, wildlife habitat

The Spiva Butte Preserve consists of some of the most pristine shrub-steppe habitat left in Washington. The 1000-acre preserve provides critical habitat for one of the last two viable Sage Grouse populations remaining in the state. With its three springs, four-acre lake and miles of riparian corridors, the healthy habitat of the Preserve is home to an amazing diversity of birds and wildlife.

Chelan-Douglas Land Trust is currently working with the private landowner to purchase and permanently protect this gem. We will be applying for a state grant in Spring 2018 that requires a 1:1 match, and are working to secure private donations for this match. If you would like to help protect this property, contact the Land Trust at sharon@cdlandtrust.org or contact Valerie Tarico at valerietarico@hotmail.com.

Click here to make a DONATION.

Photo Gallery

Related Content
Douglas County Area